NEW BEGINNING

Introduction

As the title suggests, Trivial Pursuit – A New Beginning is a brand new version of the world's favourite board game especially created for your computer. The basis of the game is still the answering of delightfully trivial questions but the rest is completely new, and even more entertaining. The program has been designed to make the game as friendly as possible and is largely self explanatory. The rules for this new game are outlined below, and the loading instructions are shown at the end of this page.

Object of the Game

Trivial Pursuit - A New Beginning is set far into the next century. The Earth is a dying planet and you have been assigned the task of carrying civilisation to the only known planet fit for human habitation outside the solar system - Genus 2.

Each player will pilot a laser driven rocket into space, and the game is a race to find the first player to be accepted by the elders on Genus 2. If you are playing the game on your own, then the task is no less difficult - you will have to try to get to Genus 2 alone. The journey through space is a hazardous one, and you will have to travel through six galaxies before Genus 2 can be approached. Each of the six galaxies contains many planets, but only a few of these planets contain an object which you must collect in order to gain access to the next galaxy. Each galaxy contains a different type of object hidden on a few of the planets. The only way to search the galaxy is to select a planet and land on it to see if there is an object to collect. A native will ask you a question, and only if you answer it correctly will you be allowed to continue without losing time and giving the next turn to another player. If you answer correctly on a planet with an object then you will be allowed to take it back to your craft and travel to the next galaxy. Only when you have collected an object from each of the six galaxies will you be allowed to land on Genus 2. Finally the elders of Genus will have to be convinced that you are truly a Trivia expert before they will allow you to settle there. Don't worry about fear of flying - the computer will navigate your ship for you - all you need to do is to put your thinking cap on and answer trivial questions!

How to Play the Game

1. Getting Started

The first screen you will see is the start up menu screen which will set up the game for you. The first thing to do is to type in each player's name you can have 1-6 players. Now press ENTER/RETURN without entering a name and the highlight will move to NEW GAME on the

At this point you will have a number of options. If you press the fire button the game will start. If you move the highlight up or down the menu then you can access the various facilities available by pressing the fire button. See below for more details.

2. The Loading Bay

The first game screen is the loading bay on earth from where your intergalactic journey starts. Each player in the game is represented by a playing 'piece', which the computer has chosen at random for each player. The players are lined up in the bay anxiously waiting to be asked a question by the station commander, who is none other than the notorious 'TP' from the Genus version of the game. Each player will be called up in turn by TP and asked a question. The status bar at the bottom of the screen gives the name of the current player, the type of question that is being asked, and can display the time limit if applicable.

After the question has been asked the player must declare his answer to the others, and then press the fire button. TP will then give the correct answer and the player's piece will display a speech bubble with YES and NO responses.

Either can be highlighted according to whether you move to the left or to the right. Once you have highlighted the suitable response press the fire button. If you were wrong then you will take your place at the back of the queue and have to try again until you have satisfied TP that you are up to manning one of his ships. If you were correct then you will leave the loading bay and your ship will blast off into outer space!

3. Spacecraft

The next screen finds you at the controls of a very modern and sophisticated craft in a galaxy far from home. You can select any planet in the galaxy by moving right or left - automatic homing devices will centre your ship onto the nearest planet in view. The name of each planet is displayed at the top of the craft. As you become more experienced in the game you will discover that sometimes the name of the planet hides a clue as to the question type which you will be asked if you land on it.

Once you have decided on which planet you choose to investigate, press the fire button to descend to the surface. If you press down on your joystick or mouse while in the craft you will access the menu icon.

If you press fire at this point you will be returned to the main menu screen. Your controls will tell you how many objects of the required six you are carrying – when the objects are gathered the wedges indicate that you are carrying them.

4. The Planets

If your chosen planet does have one of the objects you are seeking, then it will be laid out in front of you once you have landed. An alien chief will then ask you a question in the same manner as TP in the loading bay.

Go through the same procedure to answer. If you answer correctly then you will collect the object and be transported on to the next galaxy. If you were wrong then the next player will

If you have chosen a planet without an object, then your aim will be to answer the question put to you by the alien correctly so that you can continue without losing a turn.

5. Genus 2

Once you have collected all of the six objects which you require, then your craft will be manoeuvred to Genus 2 and you will meet your final test. You will have to satisfy the elders of Genus 2 that you are genuinely trivial before you will be allowed to stay. Choose which elder to ask a question from by moving the joystick left and right and pressing the fire button. These devious characters have made things more difficult by ensuring that only one of them has the ace question to answer. If you have chosen the wrong elder then you will still be asked a question. If you get it right then you will have a better chance of getting the ace question next time, because one of the elders will leave, and you will get another chance. If you are wrong then you will have to wait until the next turn. This will allow the players lagging behind to catch up! If you have chosen the correct elder, then it is up to all of the other players to choose which question type you will be asked. They will be allowed to look at your performance chart to decide which question you should be asked - if they're unfriendly then they will ensure that it is the one you find most difficult. Still, it is up to you to get it right. If you fail then you will have to convince the elders from the start on you next turn. If you succeed, then you have won the

Menus

The menus let you make some basic choices in the game. Move the highlight up or down and press fire to make your choice.

If you wish to start with one of the other blocks of questions, choose the 'Load Questions' option from the Miscellaneous menu, and you will be asked which number block you wish to use.

Hints for Playing the Game

If a player answers a question correctly, the planet explodes. However if the question is answered incorrectly then the planet remains.

If you try to remember the names of the planets landed on by other players, then you will know which non-object planets to avoid. If a player lands on an object planet but gets the question wrong, you can go straight there when it's your turn!

graphics and is included in the price of membership.

Amiga Format said: "An excellent adventure... witty, cunning just plain good fun! If you liked Fish! you'll probably like this, because they're very similar in style: you may even prefer Myth, it's that good!"

Myth Ratings: Crash 91%, CU 90%, Amiga Format 87%, TGM 85%

 Drakkhen or Sim City (rrp 29.99).
 Of Drakkhen, ST Action said: "Drakkhen really impressed me. For me, the game was a subtle cross between my all-time favourite, Dungeon Master, and the SSI fantasy role-playing games. The graphics are superb...

Overall, Drakkhen is an excellent RPG, one that will take quite some time to beat' and Zero said: "Absolutely brilliant".

Of Sim City, ACE said: "Sim City is a politiciant's - or a gamesplayer's - drawn comparisons earlier immediately. dream....comparisons spring immediately to mind with Populous... but Sim City seems to have much more depth...." and C&VG said: "Sim City is utterly fab" • Help-Line. Manned weekdays until

From the survey results the first thing we noticed (and were interested in) is the AGE of our readers. Most are under 18, i.e. 51%. The 'Under 18' vs '18 and over' is the biggest recognisable age split in the industry – as it's the one most people take interest in. STAMPEDE have a 51/49 split and as such can consider ourselves perfectly marketed.

All of our readers are game buyers, with most (50%) buying just over one game per month, some (37%) usually once every two months, and still quite a lot (13%) buying two or more games per month.

When choosing games you've plenty of choice, because most of you like a broad range of game types – all of which are popular. However, 'arcadey' games, especially shoot 'em-ups, seem to be the most popular with our readers, while RPGs aren't good enough yet to entice more of the market.

The free game seems to be the most popular feature in the magazine – that's why we include it! However, the rest of the magazine is popular with the new GAMER'S HELPLINE and the playable game demos well received. The P.D. section is also a popular feature and we hope that readers will enjoy STAMPEDE'S new P.D. column.

Although a lot of you don't let anyone else read your copy of STAMPEDE, there are some who share the magazine and it's popular with families and friends alike.

We also know, from the survey, that STAMPEDE may be your only purchase, and if not WHY not? We are enhancing the already superb review and features quality and have a continuing programme of improvement in our search for excellence!

We are also pleased that you rate us very highly and know this is the beginning of a GREAT NEW MAGAZINE.

JLATARI GAMES NIGHT

Pat Kelly tells all!

After a few hours Pete Walker (Atari PR) had been put for an early bath!

There was no holding STAMPEDE back when Atari invited us along to the London Dungeon for a special 'games night' promotion.

I've been to the London Dungeon twice before, but I've now made amends with HM Government, paid my poll tax and, this time I enjoyed it! With free cocktails, beer, food and loads of new games to play on various Atari machines, who wouldn't?

Everyone who attended seemed to be impressed with the unusual setting for the venue. Pete Walker, Atari's PR man, took this in his stride replying 'Well, it is Atari you're talking about' when congratulated. But by the end of the night everyone was pretty tired with Pete's droning and gave him an early bath (see pic 1).

An Atari spokesperson started the night off by stating their intentions for the future, hardware and software. Of most interest to those who may be considering an upgrade to an STe (and not STE) is that a new bundle has been launched for Christmas and is already available. The STe Turbo Pack contains a 520 STe, 1st Basic, Hyperpaint 2, STOS, Music Maker 2, Indiana Jones & The Last Crusade, Dragon's Breath, Anarchy, Blood Money, Impossible Mission II, Human Killing Machine, Super Cycle, Outrun and a Joystick!

On the software side, ARC, Atari's programming outfit

have a host of games currently WIP (work in progress). The first should already be available and is Badlands Pete, which has a Wild West scenario, however this looked fairly unimpressive and didn't seem to attract anyone! News of Battlescapes Twinpack may interest strategy fans as this pack consists of Armada and Borodino. Chronicles of Omega is to be released in October and is a cutesy-platform game. Gettysburg is a new Battlescapes game due for release in November, the gameplay and graphics are similar to others of its ilk, however the scenario and strategy are different.

Of the other games on the go, by far the most interesting was Cyber Assault. You're a tough villain who has been imprisoned and is entered into the most violent sporting event — Cyber Assault. The game uses 3-D vectors and has a half screen sized character running around the screen. I thought that the 3-D character looked a bit like Grace Jones, but you'll have to wait until December to see it if is or was I a bit tiddly?

By far the biggest attraction was the Kick Off Tournament

By far the most popular event was the Kick Off Competition, and while the screen may not show detail, check out its size!

(see pic 2) which was played on a massively big humungous colour monitor. Couple this with a few more competitions and you had Atari giving away quite a few prizes.

Finally I should mention the Atari 1990 Whistle Stop Tour. Those who thought that Atari had gone off the rails this year are totally wrong – they've just gone on them!! Yes a roadshow on rail!

The Atari Train will contain loads of Atari products and instead of trooping down to London or the big shows you can now visit any of the stations shown below.

When Atari announced that they wouldn't be at the massive CES show a lot of people may have felt let down – this should more than compensate for it!
